This is the letter "i" — the letter "i" says "-i-" as in insect, igloo and iguana.

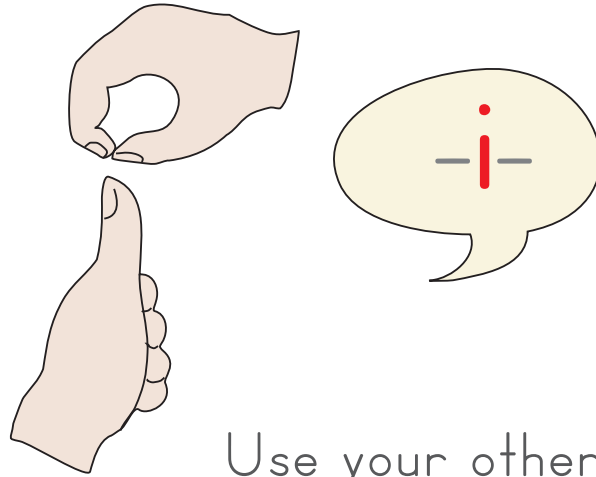

i

The letter "i" is made of a short stick and a tiny, little ball above the stick.

Let's use our hands to make the letter "i":

Your thumb is the stick.

Use your other hand to make the little ball.

And what does the letter "i" say? (Have the child make the letter "-i-" sound several times.)

Let's see what we can do with the letter "i" — sound out the letters to find out what this word says:

did

Can you see how "did" is different from "dod"?

dod

Here are some of the words we can make with the letters we know:

d i d

d o d dod and bob take a nap at the dog park.

dod is wrapped in his favorite blue blanket.

Oh no! dod wakes
up to find his blanket
is gone.

“Who did it?” asks
dod. “Who took
my blue blanket?”

“He did,” says a fuzzy little dog pointing at another fuzzy little
dog. “He did it.”

“did not,” says the second fuzzy dog.

“did so,” says the
first fuzzy dog.

A red fuzzy dog
says, "I did. It was
me. I did it."

The brown fuzzy dogs
shake their heads.

“did not,” they say.

“We did.”

dod puts his paws
over his ears. "Make up your minds," says dod.
"Who did it?"

“He did.” All three dogs point at a different dog.

Just then, bob
wags his tail and
points at something.

dod looks down and
sees the blue blanket
hiding under his tummy.

The three fuzzy dogs
say, "Who did?
dod did." Then
they run away laughing.

dod wraps the blue
blanket around his best friend. "I guess
I did, didn't I?"
